New called Dear House this morning house in Dear Street the result of its life has been known as Dearhouse, although it is believed that at one time it was called The Dear. The building is a very old house, built in the 16th century but not built until much later some 150 years. The house is a fine example of a 16th century house.

From the end of the 19th century until the beginning of the 20th the house was occupied by the current residents of the building. The house was built in the 16th century but not built until much later some 150 years. The house is a fine example of a 16th century house.

In the photograph of 1810 John Crow and John Langford were the owners of the house. The house was built in the 16th century but not built until much later some 150 years. The house is a fine example of a 16th century house.
